1 Feedback explanation

We've received a lot of feedback from another group of students and contains valuable suggestions. Here is a list of feedbacks we received and our explanation attach to it:

- Syntax error

    - Comment: This is something we should find out in the first place. Still, thanks for your patient in pointing out those issues!

- Unclear about the Chinese questionnaire platform WenJuanXing

    - Comment: We added a few lines to introduce that platform. It is essential to give enough information to the reader.

- Didn't describe your target group for surveys in the result section

    - Comment: It is crucial to have the reader information sync with us, so we add a few sentences when we are talking about the target.

- The abstract is not yet clear

    - Comment: The abstract is a pretty vital section to notify the reader what this article is about and have the article's critical point to be clear out. So we added a few lines to it. We hope it will make it more evident than before.
